DESCRIPTION OF SERVICES

NORWESCAP's Career & Life Transitions Center for Women serves displaced homemakers, women who have lost their primary means of financial support after the death or disability of a spouse, or due to a divorce or separation and must return to the workforce. Displaced Homemakers have traditionally been out of the job market for a significant period of time, lack marketable skills and are now faced with supporting both themselves and their family. Services the Transitions Center offers include computer training, career interest inventories, vocational counseling, job search skills, support groups, life skills workshops, and referrals to community resources.
